

Pop-Up!

A statistical experiment (or simply an experiment) is any controlled repeatable process that results to well-defined outcomes. It is a process that generates a set of data.

Tossing or flipping a coin once is an example of an experiment. The result is either a head (H) or a tail (T), but not both.

Head

Tail

