

Man has made advancement in the management of health over the years. Chemotherapeutic drugs and various kinds of technology are among them. Most of the times focus is on the benefits these have to health but not on the possible damages in the long run. It is a principle followed by most that focuses on the benefits outweighing the harm.

Read an article on, "The impact of endocrine disrupters on the female reproductive system," from

<http://humupd.oxfordjournals.org/content/7/3/323.full.pdf+html>

and reflect on how this is an important information all.